For the past two years, she's been using her own money to buy and cook food for the homeless and people in transitional housing. This year she cooked a huge Thanksgiving dinner for about 60 people, and shortly after Christmas she took her cooking talent to Baton Rouge where she fed about 30 women and children at a shelter, plus 40 senior citizens. She's always going out of her way to do good deeds for others outside of serving the citizens of New Orleans.

The Seventh District drafted a formal invitation to send electronically to city agencies each month.

The Seventh District documented the agencies that attended each New Orleans Neighborhood-Police Anti-Crime Council (NONPACC) meeting on a sign-in sheet and tracked progress regarding how the agencies mitigated citizen concerns.

Eighth District

The Eighth District's priorities included 1. Aggressive Panhandling and Solicitation, 2. Homeless Assistance through the Homeless Assistance Unit, and 3. Ordinance Enforcement.

Aggressive Panhandling and Solicitation

The Eighth District remedied vagrancy, aggressive panhandling, and aggressive solicitation through partnerships with many agencies and organizations. The Eighth District only enforces the relevant ordinances on aggressive panhandling and solicitation and recognizes that other panhandling is not a crime in the District.

The Eighth District continued to partner with the various private security patrols within the Eighth District to develop a more robust plan to address aggressive panhandling and aggressive solicitation. The Eighth District documented collaborative problem-solving meetings with private security patrols and other stakeholders.

The Eighth District will continue to enforce aggressive panhandling and aggressive solicitation ordinances among other nuisance crimes through summons, and if necessary, arrest as a last resort.

Homeless Assistance Unit

The Eighth District dispatched Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) to respond to calls concerning vagrancy and homelessness. CIT officers are trained to recognize and manage behavior that may be attributable to a mental health disorder. CIT officers are also trained to de-escalate mental health crises, which are often underlying issues in the homeless community.

The Eighth District engaged in collaborative problem-solving meetings with the Health Department, the Mayor's office, Sanitation, and other policy advisors on both short-term and long-term solutions to homelessness. The meeting minutes will be shared with the community, including next steps for implementation and sustained execution.

The Eighth District worked with partners in the Health Department to identify the chronically homeless to assist them through social services, such as helping them transition to permanent housing.

The Eighth District documented the encounters and successes of transitioning homeless citizens to permanent housing. The District also partnered with the Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion (LEAD) program. The LEAD program provides diversion instead of jail time for low level offenses. Program participants are partnered with social services.

Ordinance Enforcement

The Eighth District enforced ordinances in the District by conducting sound checks and business checks.

The Eighth District Community Liaison Officer reviewed noise complaints to determine when a certain area becomes a hot spot location. Thereafter, the Community Liaison Officer partnered with the Health Department to conduct sound checks in those hot spot locations, as well as train musicians and businesses on how to comply with relevant ordinances.

Eighth District patrol officers conducted business checks to ensure compliance with numerous ordinances within the District.

Community Policing Signals

NOPD uses Community Policing signals to capture proactive problem-solving activities, as well as quality of life activities, in an efficient, geo-coded, time-stamped manner. NOPD can track its community policing activities and analyze the impacts of those efforts. The community policing signals include:

Quality of Life (21Q)—Officers use the quality of life signal when they respond to quality of life issues identified by the community or the Department.

Area Check (22A)—Officers utilize the area check signal when patrolling an area within the District that has been pre-determined as an important patrol area either by the community or the Department.

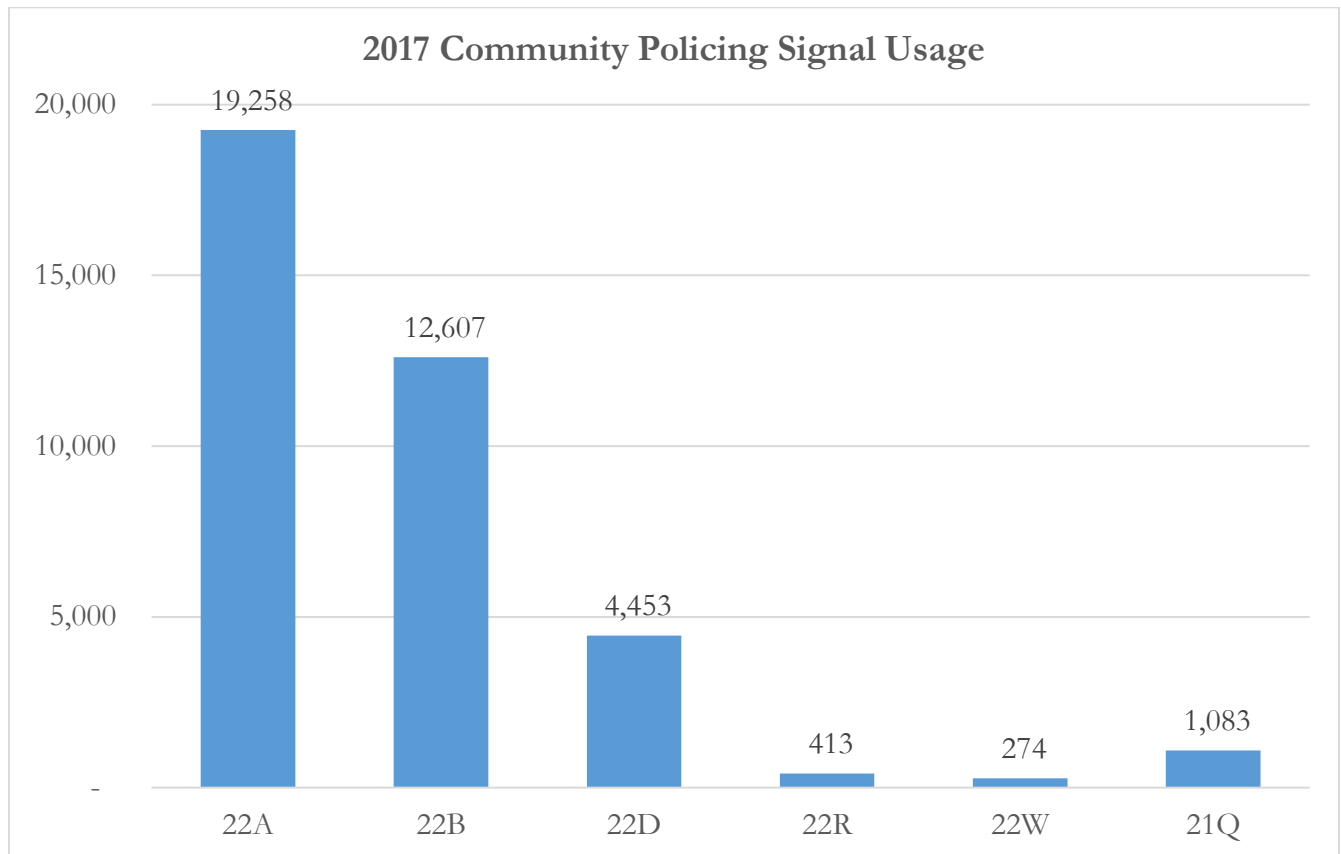

Business Check (22B)—Officers utilize the business check signal when they engage occupants at business within the District.

Directed Patrol (22D)—Officers utilize the directed patrol signal when they execute a specific mission in targeted area.

Residence Check (22R)—Officers utilize the residence check signal when the officers physically exit the patrol car and engage occupants at the residence absent a call-for-service.

Walking Beat (22W)—Officers utilize the walking beat signal while executing a defined and assigned walking beat.

NOPD uses community policing signals to document both its response to district Community Policing Plans and its broader community policing activities. NOPD used community policing signals 38,358 times in 2017; the chart below breaks down NOPD's use of these signals:

Obstacles and Recommendations

NOPD is working to develop additional tracking mechanisms for documenting community policing activities more consistently and thoroughly. Improving the collection of community engagement and policing data, reporting on this data in internal and external meetings, and utilizing this data to improve our community engagement and policing are critical goals for NOPD in 2017 as we strive to improve our partnerships with the community and our community engagement efforts.
